New York Authorities Seem To Be Getting Nowhere In Solving Case

Officers Seem Reluctant To Accept Motive That She Was 'Silenced'

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Efforts of the New York police department to dig up the answer to the question: "Who killed Vivian Gordon?" struck one snag after another today. The authorities seemed to be getting nowhere.

They delved into the vivid past of the gay, titian-haired "girl about town" who was found strangled in Van Cortlandt Park on Thursday—five days after she became a witness in the appellate division's inquiry into the alleged "framing" of women by a clique of "cops." They learned she knew many of the shadowy characters of the underworld and that she was once the friend of "Dot" King, slain Broadway butterfly.

Seeking Motive

But, although they unearthed numerous clues as a result of an examination of Miss Gordon's diaries and other personal belongings, they were unable to definitely determine the motive for the brutal slaying. The police seemed reluctant to Billy Rung of Lakewood beach reports the latest indication of the fast approach of spring. The other day he set a trap for a skunk. When he returned to his trap he found that instead of a skunk he had a nice fat groundhog of nearly 20 pounds in his trap. The groundhog is now out roaming around, which is somewhat earlier than usual in the spring and this is a fairly sure sign of the approach of spring.

Saw a nice riding team by the post office today: two nice shaggy mules, one white and one brown, both had riding saddle on them. Looked around for the riders, but there was none in sight.

The boys are digging among their playthings put away last summer and resurrecting the old marbles. Saw a group of boys playing on E. North street Friday evening, and if this spring like weather keeps up no doubt there will be many a marble ring marked up.

The Senate's approval of New Castle's new postoffice project brings actual construction one step closer. Slowly but surely the plans are materializing. But there's still a myriad of details to tackle before steam shovels start puffing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Continuing to assert himself against what he considers unsound legislation, President Hoover planned to issue a statement today or tomorrow, outlining his objections to the modified Norris bill, which, he believes, would result ultimately in government operation of the huge nitrate and power plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., idle for ten years while congress has deliberated on its disposition.

Fiscal Program Completed Congress Gets Ready To Adjourn March Fourth

IMPORTANT BILLS ARE SPEEDED UP

Lame Duck Sessions Bill Is Among Measures Yet To Be Enacted

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Its fiscal program completed, the appropriation of $4,500,000,000 to operate the government during the next fiscal year, the Seventy-first Congress today moved toward its constitutional doom at noon March 4 with politics and minor legislation to torment its dying hours.

Aside from enacting nine major appropriation bills, the Congress looked back at the passage of a $45,000,000 drought relief bill, a $20,000,000 food loan bill and the new soldier's bonus loan act, the latter over a presidential veto, during its lame duck session. This approximate legislative achievements, although some leaders hopelessly expect President Hoover to sign the Muscle Shoals bill and that House and Senate would agree to the Norris resolution, proposing a constitutional amendment to eliminate lame duck sessions.

Mild Scramble

The lame duck resolution was one of three important measures still in conference between the two branches of Congress. The others were the second deficiency appropriation bill, with more than $100,000,000 of funds for various departments, and the new veterans' hospitalization bill. The latter developed a dispute when the Senate increased a House figure of $12,000,000 to a total of $23,577,000, of which $20,877,000 would go for new veterans' hospitals and $2,500,000 for soldier's homes. Administration leaders hoped for agreements on all measures.

There was a wild scramble by senators and representatives to get minor bills enacted before Wednesday noon. A large group of midwesterners were battling for an oil

Differences With Pinchot Administration Forces Banking Head Out

CONNECTED WITH STATE SINCE 1911

Announcement Is Made Later That Cameron Is Named Bank President

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 28.—Peter G. Cameron, state secretary of banking, today resigned from office because of differences over administration of his department with the Pinchot administration.

Cameron had been connected with the state banking department since 1911 when he was named state bank examiner.

The secretary said he had taken the step only after mature reflection and because the administration and himself are not in accord on departmental policies.

At the beginning of the present administration there was considerable doubt the Cameron would be retained. Appointed June 7, 1922, Cameron served during the previous administration of Governor Pinchot and under Governor John S. Fisher.

Issues Statement.

Just prior to the present administration Cameron issued the order which resulted in the closing of the Bankers Trust company, Philadelphia, which is controlled by A. M. Greenfield.

Mr. Cameron's statement on his resignation, which he refused in any way to amplify, follows:

"After nearly 25 years of devoted service to the state as bank examiner, deputy and secretary of banking, I have today resigned the latter office."

"I have taken this step after mature reflection, and only for the reason that I am not in full accord with the present administration and I am not in full accord with regard to departmental policies."

"I am not retiring on pay in any amount pursuant to the provisions of the state employees' retirement law, because I am not 60 years of age and will not be for a number of years."

The whole trouble with the Republicans is, their fear of an increasing income tax, especially on higher incomes. They speak of it almost like a national calamity.

I really believe if it came to a vote whether to go to war with England, France and Germany combined, or raise the rate on incomes of over 100,000, they would vote for war.

WOMAN ASSERTS HUSH MONEY PAID TO TRIO

Deputy Constable Of Ellwood City And Two Others Given Hearing

All Three Held For Court After Hearing Before Alderman Here

Speaking in a low, clear voice, Mrs. Anna Aceta of 910 South Mercer street, recited before a crowd that filled Alderman Green's court room Friday evening, her experience of last December 11 when five men produced an alleged warrant, raided her home and demanded hush money after one of them obtained a pint of liquor without paying for it.

After her testimony and that of Sergeant E. J. "Fritz" of Troop D. State Police, was ended, Alderman Green held three men for the March term of court in jail of $2,000 each on charges of extortion and conspiracy.

The three defendants held for court are Deputy Constable Robert Glass, 23, of 418 Fountain avenue, Ellwood City; George Zellum, 21, 206 Crescent avenue, Ellwood City; and Harry Agnew, 27, New Castle.

District Attorney John S. Powers appeared in behalf of the commonwealth and questioned his witnesses at the hearing. Mrs. Aceta and Sergeant Price. Price made the arrest of the three.

Woman Testifies

Mrs. Aceta, th. first to testify, declared that on the night of last December 11, Agnew, the New Castle member of the raiding party came to her home first, asking if there was anything to drink in the house.

The woman, who answered in the affirmative, and then started to talk and in a short time four others came inside. One of them, Deputy Constable Glass of Ellwood City, said to her: "You are under arrest."

He then proceeded to read a warrant. The others were told by Glass to search the house, the woman testified.

County authorities at the hearing chucked when the woman testified the members of the party that raided her home called Glass "sergeant" and in "ated that he was the leader of the party."

Mrs. Aceta, a Glass next demanded hush money asking: "How much money have you got?"

Powers that she gave Glass all the money she had in the house—$26. Of that amount Glass is said to have given another member of the party—one he called his uncle—five dollars.

BRIDGE PARTY SCENE RE-ENACTED IN COURT

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 28.—An admission that the revolver shots which killed John G. Bennett as the aftermath of a bridge game quarrel might have been fired during a struggle was regarded today as a victory for the defense of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, the widow who is on trial for her husband's murder.

Grasping a revolver in one hand, the ex-senator re-enacted the bridge game slaying before the jurors yesterday in an effort to prove that the fatal shots might have been fired in the course of a tussle between the wife and her wealthy husband on September 29, 1929.

Rescued Youth Is Recovering

Boy Who Fell Into River, Rescued, And Resuscitated

Howard, the little two year old son of Blanche Moore, 115 Lacock street, who fell from the Baltimore and Ohio bridge over the Shenandoah river at New Castle Junction, into the water of the river, was reported today by the attending physician as doing as well as could be expected. As far as can be determined, he suffered no injuries in his fall but he suffered considerable from the shock and the exposure. Unless complications arise from these conditions the little boy will recover.

The accident occurred early Friday afternoon as the mother and the little accident victim were walking across the Baltimore and Ohio bridge. The child stumbled and fell over the edge of the bridge into the river, before his mother could prevent the accident.

The child hurtled through the air to the water below, a distance of at least forty feet. Fortunately he did not happen to strike any stones or other hard projections in his fall.

After landing in the water, the body of the boy floated on down the river a distance of some four or five hundred feet, when Paul Dudak went into the water and brought him to the shore.

First aid means of resuscitation, were used and fortunately the little boy started to regain consciousness and breathed properly after the water had been removed from him by the resuscitation efforts of those on the scene.

In the meantime the police were called and Detective John Youngs, Captain J. Ed Elder, Patrolwoman Mrs. Minnie McKibben and Officer Charles Longstreth responded with the pulmotor. It was not necessary, however, to use it, as a physician had also been called and assumed charge.

You're the JUDGE

Here's a famous case that goes back to the days after the civil war. President Lincoln had just been shot. The entire country was hunting for Booth and his accomplices. The secretary of war, on April 20, 1865, published widespread in the papers, a proclamation saying that the war department "for the apprehension of John H. Suratt, one of Booth's accomplices," would pay a reward of $25,000. Furthermore, the proclamation stated that "liberal rewards will be paid for any information that shall conduce to the arrest of either of the above named criminals or their accomplices."

The offer of reward stood for nearly seven months. But about that time an order was published revoking it. Five months after the reward was revoked, a soldier in the Papal military of Italy recognized that another soldier in that same military was the Suratt wanted. He communicated that information to the American minister, and as a result Suratt was apprehended. Congress felt grateful to the soldier and, under a special amendment, paid him $10,000 as a reward. But the soldier thought that he ought to have the entire $25,000. He was told that the reward had been revoked before he gave the information, and that even the $10,000 was a gift. But he maintained stoutly that if the reward had been revoked he knew nothing of it, and he filed suit.

With the improvement program for the coming spring and summer being considered at city hall, Pa. Newc suggests that Euclid avenue paving be included, and that the city provide for paving in front of the George Washington Junior high school. The city has expended $10,000 or more of the fund received from sale of the conduit system on widening the Narrows during the winter, and we believe that there is plenty of reason for expending some of the same fund for a permanent improvement like paving in front of the junior high school. The people of the city pay for the work whether it comes out of the school tax or the city tax and the people of the city paid for the municipal conduit also, from which the $70,000 fund was secured by council.

12 years and like the city and its people. I would leave Harrisburg with great regret and trust I may not find it necessary to do so.

In a speech to a group of bankers here on Monday, Cameron thanked them for the united support which they had given in urging he be retained as secretary. When it was considered probable that Cameron would be relieved after Governor Pinchot took office practically every group of banks in the state passed resolutions lauding his service and ability. The governor's office was swamped with letters not only from Pennsylvania bankers but as well from those in other states urging that Cameron be retained.

To Leave At Once. The letter of resignation which Cameron sent to the governor revealed that he had been continued in office only until July 1 of this year but that he preferred to leave at once rather than to wait for that date.

"When I asked Mr. Cameron to remain as secretary of banking it was with the understanding that the question of his continuance in office after July 1 would remain open," Governor Pinchot said.

The governor also said that he had accepted the Cameron resignation and "had no comment to make upon it or any desire to attack Mr. Cameron."

Dr. William A. Gordon who is the first deputy of the department will act as secretary pending the appointment of Cameron's successor. Gordon, at the beginning of the present administration, replaced James Taylor, Indiana, who was dismissed as first deputy.

Officers of the Mechanics Trust Company of this city announced at noon that Cameron had been elected president of that institution at a meeting of the directors on Thursday. Cameron intends to take a vacation and assume his duties about April 1.

This measure would limit crude oil imports to 16,000 barrels annually for the next three years, and bar all oil products for the same time. Cruiser Bill Doomed. The administration's cruiser construction bill, intended to build up the American navy to the limits of the London treaty, appeared doomed. There was a distinct reluctance to act upon it in both House and Senate. The cause of the formidable opposition was not clear, except that "little navy" men protested the cost would put too great a strain on the treasury at this time.

While hundreds of bills, some of considerable importance, remained on House and Senate calendars, the legislative record seemed completed. It will require almost unanimous support to get further important legislation enacted. The passage of the bonus loan bill over a veto was taken as the legislative swan-song of the dying Congress.

In the governor's letter to Senator William H. Earnest, chairman of the investigating committee, he said that he would be governed by the attorney general's opinion and attached a copy of it to his own missive.

Opinion Submitted. The opinion pointed out that other witnesses who had appeared before the senate committee had been "examined and cross examined" but advised against the governor submitting himself to that ordeal as an "entirely different matter" and "impossible to justify."

"There is now power conferred upon the general assembly by the constitution at any time or under any circumstances to call the governor before it for the purpose of interrogating him to the reasons underlying any action he has taken; and, particularly, the constitution does not authorize the general assembly to call upon the governor to justify his reasons for recommending to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient," the opinion said.

Quotations from opinions of the appellate courts, carried in the opinion, discussed the three branches of the state government—legislative, executive and judiciary—and the powers of each.

On that angle an opinion of Chief Justice Gibson said:

Greenfield Summoned. In addition to Governor Pinchot the senate committee next week expects to hear Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia real estate and building and loan promoter. A subpoena has been issued for his appearance. Testimony last week brought out that Greenfield had profited to the extent of almost $1,000,000 by the sale of the Quaker City Cab Company to P. R. T., a move which the Public Service Commission refused to approve.

The original contract for the sale, as submitted to the Public Service Commission, provided that in case that body refused to approve the transfer, it should be considered null and void. A later contract provided for the payment of $1,360,000 to Greenfield regardless of the Public Service Commission action.

U. S. Attorney General William A. Schnader also may be asked to appear. Schnader was formerly interested financially in the Quaker City Cab Company, and appeared as counsel before the Public Service Commission to oppose issuance of a certificate to the Ford Taxicab Co.

ed more money, not being satisfied with the small amount. Mrs. Aceta, and her daughter were then driven to a son where she obtained $7 more. The witness said she promised to meet the demands of the men and get more money next day. The next day—it was on a Friday—Mrs. Aceta was driven to the home of a sister, where she succeeded in getting $80 more. Zolium was the driver of the party.

Glass, two other men, Mrs. Aceta and her daughter were driven to the witness's son on the first night. The others remained in the Aceta home. The witness said she did not see the men again after paying the last of $106.

Sergeant Testifies. Sergeant Price of Troop D, Butler Barracks, testified he arrested the defendants, Glass, Zolium and Agnew and had taken them to the Butler barracks for fingerprinting and questioning.

Price testified that Glass told him he (Glass) would plead guilty before a judge, and also that he was foolish for having been "led in" in the case. Glass, according to the witness, said when questioned in the Butler barracks, that if any money had been paid by the woman, that Agnew, the New Castle member of the raiding party, had received it. The witness further testified that Glass told him the warrant used in the raid had originally been made out for against another person.

VETERANS ALREADY RECEIVING MONEY FROM GOVERNMENT

made days ago to expedite administration of the new law, designed as a relief measure.

Needy Get Preference. From the White House came immediate word provisions of the law would be carried out in good faith, but the President joined the appeal that only those in need apply.

It is the administration's contention that if this advice is followed, the drain on the treasury would be only ten per cent of the total liability under the law.

Pursuant to this policy, the President declared he had issued instructions to Frank T. Hines, Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, to give priority to the applications from the needy. He also asked for prompt certification of this class, "especially giving regard to the certification of the veterans service organizations and the various relief organizations dealing with unemployment."

Ready With Funds. Pittsburgh, Feb. 28.—With extra funds deposited to cover loans authorized by the Soldiers' Compensation Loan Bill, passed over the veto of President Hoover, announcement was made today that the Pittsburgh office of the United States Veterans' Bureau is prepared to handle 400 loan applications daily.

M. J. Shortley, manager of the local office, urged veterans who are employed in the immediate need to defer their applications so that the bureau may give first attention to needy applicants.

An explosion in an automatic oil furnace in the cellar of Attorney E. F. G. Harpers residence, 309 Boyles avenue, this morning caused damages estimated by firemen at $500.

BALDWIN CLASS FETES HUSBANDS AT DINNER

A regular Irish atmosphere was predominant Friday evening in the dining room of the Highland United Presbyterian church when the members of the Baldwin Bible class of which Mrs. Ray Rhodes is president and Mrs. Tom Lindsey teacher, entertained their husbands at a seven o'clock dinner.

Lovely green and white centerpieces with shamrocks sprouting out were used as a background and down the centers of the long tables, green candles in crystal holders and pots of shamrock added to the St. Patrick day. Covers were arranged for over 100 persons and green baskets of small candies marked each place. The green and white was further carried out in the dainty aprons and caps of green worn by Dorothy Blim, Thelma Merriells, Lucille Kison, Helen Barr, Betty Davis and Julian Davis, who did the serving. Mrs. Harold McCollough was responsible for the decorations.

Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the church, invoked the divine blessing and after the delicious menu had been served, Mrs. F. L. Burton took charge of the program of entertainment and much merriment was caused by the various stunts.

The feature of the evening was the singing of the "colored" quartet, Mrs. T. J. McPate, Mrs. Daniel Maddocks, Mrs. T. E. Dukes and Mrs. Anson McKee, accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Allen. Their original songs about prominent members of the church brought forth much laughter.

The artistic ability of the class members and guests were clearly shown in the portraits they drew of each other and for these the first prize was awarded Charles E. Allen, the second Mrs. B. G. Welsh and third to Mrs. H. S. Kison, with honorable mention going to Mrs. L. A. Fehl, R. L. Lavis and Mrs. Charles E. Allen.

Hilarity reigned supreme when Irvine Balph, Dr. T. J. McPate, Lee Allen, Lave Johns, R. Vanderslice, Walter Dietrich and Ralph Davis opened a millinery shop, trimmed some artistic creations and then to the music of Ray Rhoades, paraded before the reviewing stand, wearing the chapeaux, set at jaunty angles. The prizes were awarded Ralph Davis and Irvine Balph. Prizes in the picture contest were won by Miss Mildred Cooley and Ralph Davis.

DOROTHY FULDHEIM AT TEMPLE ISRAEL

"Council Sabbath" which is observed annually by the National Council of Jewish women, was celebrated Friday evening in Temple Israel with an audience of over 200 persons.

The prelude and meditation was a most devotional and appropriate opening to the service, with Mrs. William Cosel, presiding at the console; after which the choir sang the "Sabbath" song in Hebrew: Mrs. Eliah Kaplan read the regular Friday evening service from the Union prayer book and Mrs. Joseph Ehrlich gave a selection from the Book of Esther appropriate to the occasion and dealing with the Purim holiday.

Rabbi Menkes, pastor of Temple Israel, continued the service with adoration and Kaddish after which a beautiful solo was given by Miss Ruth Dresner.

Mrs. B. Kline, president of the local council, then introduced Mrs. Dorothy Fuldheim of Cleveland who was greeted most enthusiastically. Mrs. Fuldheim well known to New Castle audiences, was really remarkable in her Friday evening presentation: her gracious manner and platform poise added much to the interest of her review and she held her audience spell bound from the minute she stepped upon the platform, really outshining her usual inimitable self.

Mrs. Fuldheim spoke briefly of Leon Feuchtwanger's book "Success" and then launched into "The Road to Culture" by Poe. She said that poetry, literature, art, philosophy and prayer were the main attributes to living and culture, concluding her review by saying there were five essentials that were conducive to right living and these were gratitude, kindness, courtesy, unselfishness and "la sevoit" our way of dealing with others.

At the conclusion of the program, the entire audience was invited to the assembly room of the church, where the members of the council served light refreshments.

Entertains For Daughter

Mrs. J. R. Mears, Butler avenue, was a pleasing hostess Friday evening in her home when she invited a few friends in as a surprise to her daughter, Mrs. Allan Morrow, the occasion being the anniversary of her birth.

Games, instrumental and vocal music featured the hours and the honor guest was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Especially entertaining was the clog dance given by Mrs. Gomer Emery.

Green and white were the colors used in table appointments, when a most tempting lunch was served. Helen Parkinson of Youngstown, Ohio, was an out of town guest.

G. M. D. Club

Mrs. Paul Lutz of Warren avenue entertained at the regular meeting of the G. M. D. Club Friday evening. Three tables of bridge were in play as the feature pastimes and the prize for high score was given to Mrs. J. W. Campbell, while the consolation award went to Mrs. Charles H. Richardson. Later a dainty collation was served in the dining room by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. E. R. Campbell, who was a special guest.

They will hold their next meeting in two weeks at the home of Mrs. George Price on East Washington street.

Swastika Club.

The Swastika club members enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Harry Blaine on Dewey avenue when she entertained in her home Thursday evening. Cards were in vogue as the main diversion, and the prize for honors was awarded to Mrs. Lillian Houk at the close of the game.

The small tables were re-decorated in gay colored linens and centered with bouquets of spring flowers, where a lunch was later served by the hostess, Mrs. Mary Blaine helped with the menu.

They adjourned to meet again in the home of Mrs. Fred Fike, Cleveland avenue, Thursday, March 12.

HELENA AUXILIARY BANQUETS FRIDAY

Members of the Helena Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church met in the Green room of the Y. W. C. A. Friday at 6 o'clock for their annual banquet, with Mrs. H. Beck and Maude Elder as hostesses. Dainty green and white appointments were suggestive of St. Patrick's day.

Concluding dinner the annual business meeting was held with Miss Elder and Mrs. Elizabeth Sterrett leading the devotional. Reports of the various committees were heard with approval and officers for the coming year were elected.

Mrs. Robert M. McBurney was chosen president; Mrs. S. S. Myers, first vice; Mrs. C. S. Shearer, second vice; Mrs. Joseph Jordan, treasurer; Miss Lulu Richardson, secretary of literature; Mrs. A. T. Thompson, secretary of stewardship; Mrs. W. G. Wilson, director of music and Mrs. J. N. Duff and Mrs. Margaret Rice, flower committee.

March 27 the next meeting will be with Mrs. H. H. Beck, East Lincoln avenue.

Our Gang Club

Miss Dorothy Doerr of Croton avenue was hostess to the members of Our Gang Club in her home last evening. Games were played during the evening and the hostess was assisted in serving by her aunt Miss Grace Gibson. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion in St. Patrick's novelties and a color scheme of green and white was carried out. Prizes during the evening were won by Betty Lathrop and Jean McCready. The club will meet again on March 14 with Emmy Lou Wier of County Line street. Those present last evening were Betty Lathrop, Jean McCready, Emmy Lou Wier and Dorothy, Helen and Louise Doerr.

G. M. D. Club.

Mrs. Paul Butz, Warren avenue, was hostess to the G. M. D. club Friday afternoon when she entertained with cards. Bridge was chosen and prizes for scores were won by Mrs. J. W. Campbell and Mrs. Charles H. Richardson. A dainty lunch served by the hostess in the dining room closed another delightful meeting. Mrs. E. R. Campbell, guest and a sister of the hostess, assisted with the menu.

In two weeks Mrs. George Price of East Washington street will receive the club.

"FASHIONABLE" AILMENTS

EVERYBODY has influenza; it is the fashionable mid-winter illness.

This is a sesquicentennial utterance, not an observation made in this winter of 1930-31. The "flu" was a "fashionable" sickness 150 years ago and thereafter, when the revolutionary forefathers were fighting the war for American independence. It was prevalent in that period, just as it is now, when under its name various kindred ailments are grouped to add to its magnitude as an "epidemic." And it is probably just as nearly "fashionable" now as it was then.

The words at the head of this editorial were those of Baron von Steuben, "drill master of the Revolution," and it is suspected that he used the term "fashionable" in the sense of general or widespread. But had he intended the modern meaning he would not have been wrong.

These minor "epidemics" do become fashionable. For the same reason that they "speak" of operations, people have a weakness for magnifying colds and la grippe into the more malignant influenza if it is rumored about that the influenza is the thing this season. They are not malingering, because they convince themselves of their adherence to the fashion of the sickroom.

Better that people exaggerate their ailments than belittle them. Colds neglected quickly become influenza and then pneumonia. So being fashionable sometimes saves lives.

TAX WORRIES HERE AGAIN

The ideas of March are at hand. Those assassins of incomes, bank balances and composites are returning to harry and distress.

Added to the worries of making out income-tax returns is the new anxiety of how to pay the first installment. Those who two years ago fretted about brackets, schedules, forms and exemptions have forgotten those worries. Their present concern is with paying the tax, rather than with making a return. And it is small consolation to those who for the first time will have nothing to return this year.

Perhaps it is Uncle Sam who has most cause to complain this income-tax year. Business losses and unemployment during 1930 will cut deeply into income-tax payments. This rich source of public revenue is expected to be but a portion of its former self.

Congress and the administration at Washington may well be concerned over the March 15 returns, for in them will be read the size of the federal treasury deficit made inevitable by an extravagant congress made more extravagant by national adversity.

In those figures there may also be reason for the taxpayers to read and weep. They will have something to do with fixing future tax rates and determining income-tax exemptions, and the prospects are not bright.

MUSIC ON THE VERGE

A New York musical journal started something the other day when, in an idle moment, it propounded the query, "If you had only 24 hours more to live and could hear one piece of music, what would you select?" The idea has been taken up by many newspapers and has spread rapidly from coast to coast. A survey of some of the answers throws interesting sidelights upon music appreciation as well as upon human nature.

John Philip Sousa wants to hear his own "Stars and Stripes," the march that made him famous and will naturally always be grateful to his ears. The Rev. "Billy" Sunday prefers "The Sweet By and By," which has at least the merit of simplicity. Owen Wister asks for the "Hallelujah Chorus" of Handel, and there will be many to share his preference. Professor William Lyon Phelps would cross the bar to the magnificent strains of Beethoven's Ninth. So they choose, all of the gentlemen, presumably, having waived the objection that at the brink of the grave no man is likely to listen to music.

Two facts are outstanding in this novel survey. The first is that a majority of the votes went to the symphonies and quartets of Beethoven—a sure tribute to their profound and ultimate beauty, remarks the Times-Star of Cincinnati. The second, that none went to the popular music of the day. Upon the last hour of life, the syncopation and the blaring dissonance of jazz must not intrude.

DANGER IN KITE-FLYING

Almost any pleasant day now youngsters can be seen in various parts of the city flying their kites. The ancient pastime never seems to lose its appeal and is as certain of annual revival as the approach of spring. Of course, the sport is usually confined to boyhood but, sub rosa, it is not at all unusual to see a grown man "showing his son how it should be done." And sometimes it is remarkable the time it requires for the adult to impress the lesson upon the youngster who, perforce, must stand by wishing that "dad" would "hurry up" and turn the string over to his real owner.

Kite-flying is not considered a dangerous pastime, but it may be. Last year there were a number of fatalities from the innocent diversion. This has led the National Safety Council to issue a warning. The chief danger is from electric shock. Wet strings are excellent conductors and children should be taught not to go near wires to recover their kites when they become entangled.

Another hazard called attention to in connection with the sport is that of being run down in the street by passing automobiles. Keeping off streets when indulging in the recreation is the only safe procedure.

WHAT DOES TROUBLE DO TO YOU?

Fear isn't such a bad thing. Sometimes it compels bravely desperate deeds.

The thought of Death isn't the worst thing in the world. Sometimes it makes men and women decide to live after they have almost delayed too long.

Danger can be more than a threat. It can be a Challenge.

There's a Daphne plant in our back yard. It has been there for many years, growing green, putting out leaves, sucking up water, staying in one place, taking up room, but bearing no flowers.

A Daphne ought to pay its way somehow. In the spring it should create small, delicate flowers. It should be a center of sweet odors. It should be a symbol to men of what a small plant can do with common air and common water and common earth. . . . But this plant quietly refused to do its part. Something in it was choked and locked and flowerless, and there was some talk of digging it up and throwing it away.

Then someone said, "An old German gardener told me that when a Daphne plant refuses to bloom there's a way to make it do so. Take a knife and cut around the main trunk. Not all the way, but nearly. The plant will think it is about to die, and in a last effort it will put forth flowers. It will not really die; the wound in the trunk will heal; but after that year it will always bloom."

We tried that, without much hope. It seemed a silly thing to do, but we cut around the bark last fall. . . . And this year, for the first time in its life, that Daphne has flowers. There are buds all over it, they are showing pink, and some of those buds have already become flowers—as delicate and perfumed as any Daphne ever brought forth in the morning of the year.

I'm no botanist, so I don't know just what happened. And I don't insist, either, that the Daphne began to bloom because it was afraid it was going to die and felt it must justify its silky existence, finally, by creating flowers. . . . But I know that the Daphne had refused to bloom; I know we cut around its bark; I know it is blooming now and that it had never bloomed before. That's enough for me.

Fear does not always paralyze. Trouble does not crush all men and women. In some people it brings out the best and the strongest that is in them, and forces them for the first time to live as a human being should. . . . What does it do to you?

THERE'S A BRIGHT SIDE

Present conditions have greatly increased income.

In this fact the future looks gloomy.

But, as a matter of fact, you may have learned several valuable lessons.

You have learned to think about the future, at any rate.

As an employee you have had fears about your position.

The discharge of men has awakened you to the fact that it is necessary for you to exert yourself to a greater degree to hold a job.

Your production must be larger and of higher quality.

You cannot safely jog along.

Financially you have been careless in the past not anxious to increase your earnings because you have gotten along so easily and comfortably.

If your experiences have aroused you to a greater degree of responsibility to your employer and to yourself you have profited.

If you are acquiring a sensible state of mind and are convinced that life is a serious undertaking you may have gained something that should make future years more profitable to you and yours.

You have expected too much if you have thought that you can go through life with little care and little planning and much sacrifice.

Miss Leitzel's Tragic Fate Draws Sympathy Of World

Queen Of Circus Lauded As One Who Revealed Incredible Bravery, Devotion To Her Art And Human Qualities Which Illumined Life

The hold that Lillian Leitzel had on the imagination of the world is evidenced by the comments that have followed the news of her tragic death in Copenhagen. Praise for the mastery of her art, for her bravery, and for her kindly nature is voiced by Americans.

"The circus will come as usual. Perhaps there will be new startling exhibitions of skill and daring. They will not dim for many of us that vision of the fairy-like form in the feat known technically as the giant half-flange, but to the audience as that contribution to the spectacle of the circus which could be made only by the little lady who has executed it for the last time." This is the tribute of the BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT to a star of the circus. For she was a recognized star in her profession. As the HARTFORD DAILY TIMES says: "Her amazing art, her gracefulness and utterly delightful charm of presence invariably put the touch of climax to the afternoon or evening performance in the big tent."

"Prima donna of the big tent" is the title given her by the INDIANAPOLIS STAR, which points to the fact that "years of rigorous training and the discomforts of professional life preceded arrival at the peak of her calling in the world-famous circus." Stressing this point also, the CHARLOTTE (N. C.) NEWS says: "Her circus life and her dramatic and focus attention to that character which must lie behind all distinction whatever the field. Here was a discipline of attention and rigorous ordinary human being, taking the course of least resistance in life, must marvel at."

And this paper, as indicating the full measure of her fame, directs attention to the fact that, "when she appeared, that plethora of fantastic spectacles, of simultaneous appeals to eye and ear, stopped. Her act alone, in circus history, was considered thrilling enough to stop the rest of the show."

The BALTIMORE SUN, conceding that "reputations can be acquired by accident or default," states emphatically that Lillian Leitzel did not achieve hers so. Very definitely she was an artist—at least as much an artist as actress or diva or dancer is—at work in a realm of art which may lack its physical and social "glamour," but that wants nothing for history, audience or significance.

Training was not all that contributed to her success, for she had background and personal talent, many papers declare, among them the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, which remarks: "She was a trouper, Lillian Leitzel, a trouper, like her mother before her, a long line of acrobatic ancestors preceded her into this world. She was born with a flair for the circus, born to wear spangles and glitter under the glowing lights of the big top, born to amuse and love, to give a finished performance, no matter what the grief the heart aches, and it started a tradition of appointments which might impede her progress through the air. And she is dead. But many millions who saw her and adored her will not forget the little Bohemian who reached the pinnacle of the show world, reached it to swing through space for years, a comet finally dashed to earth when defective apparatus failed" concludes the Chronicle.

"She died at her work, in Copenhagen, when the iron bar broke and sent her brave form to the hard floor," comments the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN, which calls her "a courageous woman, enduring what poor man would never attempt, the greatest gymnast in the world. The circus will be less glamorous without her," asserts the BULLETIN.

"She fell and waved to the spectators," records the ALBANY EVENING NEWS. "The 'queen of the circus' was as brave to the last and made her final exit as smilingly as if she were not mortally hurt." This paper continues, "Hers was a brave and merry heart, and it is good sometimes to remember how much these daring folk teach us in the spirit of making others happy."

"Every day people die as they perform their tasks," reminds the ZANESVILLE SIGNAL. "That was what Lillian Leitzel was doing," it continues. "It was her job to put a sparkle into the march of stodgy thoughts that go parading through most of our minds. Somehow, tasks were easier when people knew that once in a while there was someone who swayed to dangerous music, unafraid," concludes the Signal.

"Down goes a spangle from the 'big top,' is the way the JERSEY JOURNAL puts it. 'Some day' it continues, 'Lillian Leitzel, billed as the world's premier woman aerialist, had been won't to say lightly, yet gravely, as she prepared to go aloft to swing round and round by her hand and perform other sensational and breath-taking stunts for the admiration of thousands. Performing in Copenhagen, Miss Leitzel fell. The 'some day' she fatally tumbled had come," declares the Journal.

Noting that no life net was ever spread below her trapeze, and that Miss Leitzel had explained concerning this fact "that a life net would make her feats seem tame to the spectators," the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL remarks: "Crowds have not changed much since the days of the Roman circus. In America we ban bullfights out of compassion for bulls, but we approve with our patronage automobile races, airplane 'stunting' and Miss Leitzel's kind of death defiance. The sweet faced charming woman was a

Veterans' Bureau In Philadelphia Swamped With Applications

EXTRA-FORCE IS ENGAGED FOR WORK

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—More than 3000 World War veterans, many of them jobless and crippled, lined up in front of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau at 33rd and Arch streets, here today seeking loans on their adjusted compensation certificates.

Applications were being received at the local office for veterans from Eastern Pennsylvania and the Delaware district and many of the waiting ex-soldiers were from nearby towns and villages. They arrived by bus, train and automobile, and every hour their numbers increased.

The waiting men were hilarious at first but as the hours passed they became rather nettled over the long wait. The clerks handled them as rapidly as possible but only a few hundred could be taken care of each hour as there were so many details to be filled out on their applications for the compensation loans as provided for in the act passed at Washington yesterday.

More than 60 clerks were on the task, however, and asserted they would "work all day and night" if necessary to take care of the waiting applicants.

Jury Deliberating Fate For Woman In Philadelphia Court

Jurors Still Deliberate Fate For Mrs. Clara Grace Prophet At Noon Today

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—Still far from agreement as to their verdict in the Clara Grace Prophet murder case, the 12 men jurors deliberating on the woman's fate, straggled all night and this morning without reaching an agreement on any verdict.

The jury was still out at 12:30 when Judge Frank Smith recessed court until 2 p. m.

Throughout the forenoon the court room was crowded with spectators who apparently were eager to learn if Mrs. Prophet was to be given the death sentence for her part in the slaying of her husband, William. Her brother, Harold E. Williams, a huckster, was sentenced to the electric chair for his part in the crime, after a jury trial two weeks ago.

Tut-Petrolle Fight Has Queer Angles

Gamblers Bet Sums That Petrolle Would 'Kayo' Tut

(International News Service)
MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28.—The Minnesota state boxing commission today notified the New York commission that unreasonable betting odds were established in the Northwest on the King Tut-Billy Petrolle fight in Madison Square Garden last night.

At the same time it was learned that two gamblers from Fargo, N. D., Petrolle's home town, had placed thousands of dollars on Petrolle in Duluth, Chicago and Minneapolis, giving odds of 2 to 1 that Petrolle would win by a knockout in less than five rounds.

Charles Johnson, sports editor of the Minneapolis Star, stated today that prior to last night's fight a well-known Minneapolis gambler had revealed to him the exact round in which Tut would be knocked out. This information was also forwarded to the New York commission, which will make an investigation into the fight.

Unusual Cover Design On Paper

"The Ben Franklin" student publication of Benjamin Franklin junior high school has a unique and unusually attractive cover design on this issue.

On a map of Lawrence county is pictured the junior high school building, surrounded by cuts of a graduate, a tradesman, a basketball player, and football player.

This map was drawn by Camillo Morganti. It was cut on red paper and then transferred to a zinc plate by The New Castle News. Rose O'Laughlin an Virginia Robert composed a few lines of poetry appearing beneath the cover design.

So a great liner is named President Coolidge. Tugs belonging to the organization will push it into its goal each time.

Fifty Four Posts Aiding Banquet Plans Of March 11

From the indications today the ticket sale for the National Commander's banquet to be held here by the American Legion on March 11, will be a sell out according to the general chairman, Harry M. Long.

Some fifty four posts of the Legion are co-operating with the Perry S. Gaston Post to make the affair a success and a number of bugle and drum corps will be here.

Posts from the Beaver Valley, from Mercer and Butler Counties, from Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Warren have been recharged blocks of seats, and the 2000 maximum set upon the places for the dinner look to be less than enough to accommodate the crowd.

The reservations for New Castle are not yet sold out and it is still possible to get seats. National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil, as well as State Commander Engard will be present and the state commander of the woman's auxiliary is expected.

Escaped Polk Inmate Chats Pleasantly Between Smokes

Unperturbed, although suffering from severe bruises evidenced by fattered clothes, received during a night of terror when he was twice struck down by automobiles on a dark road, Paul Johnson, 28, Polk asylum inmate, who was returned to the institution by city police today, appeared to enjoy his cigarettes at police headquarters Friday evening.

Johnson, who hails from Swissvale, Pa., and proved it by showing a faded piece of paper with the address of his parents, told questioners he "just ran away" from Polk. He had expected to get out in May, anyhow, he said.

Motorists traveling from Slippery Rock to New Castle proved a godsend to the unsuspecting inmate. The automobile carrying two women and two men, struck him down as he wandered about in a dazed condition on a dark stretch of road last night. The driver stopped, lifted Johnson and took him to the New Castle police station.

It was the second time in night that he had been struck down. Earlier, at 8 p. m., another motorist ran into him. The first car was driven by a hit and run driver, however, and the machine continued on its way as if nothing at all had taken place.

At the station house last night Johnson was silent. He readily smoked cigarettes handed to him. To show his gratitude, he took out two newspaper clippings out of an inside coat pocket. They were pictures of stage actresses. One was of Edna Best, English actress who is now in a New York stage play. Another was of Jeanne Aubert, principal in "America's Sweetheart". The clippings were from a Pittsburgh newspaper.

Desire To Worship

When the Psalmist utters the words contained in the above verse he is giving expression to a sincere desire for the privilege of worship in the sacred Temple of the Lord. This Hebrew writer believed that as he entered into the Holy Place he was entering into the presence of his God. If this writer of the distant past, with his limited possibilities in the opportunities of spiritual worship, could find so much real joy in his worship, how much more so should it be true with us today. With the coming of Christ and the wonderful revelation that He has brought to us we have a much clearer conception of the meaning and value of our religious experiences.

As the Easter season again approaches we feel, perhaps, more than at any other time of the year the need of a renewal of our spiritual life. There is no doubt but that the best way for us to secure this spiritual experience is by coming into fellowship with Christ and His followers in the privilege of co-operative worship that the church affords. There is no substitute for the worship service of the church of Jesus Christ. We may receive some intellectual satisfaction in listening to a good sermon over the radio or in the reading of a good book on the Lord's Day, but neither one of these things can ever bring to us the genuine delight and rich personal experience that comes to us when we come into the spiritual presence of our Lord in the House that has been set aside as our place of worship.

So may all of us as we enter our place of worship tomorrow be able to say with the sincere sincerity of the Psalmist, "I was glad when they said unto me let us go into the House of the Lord."

The first and the present court house was constructed in 1850-1852 and has served the county ever since. The court house is not as it was originally built, there being a number of additions, which have been added from time to time to meet the requirements of the county.

Auto Show Will Be Brought To Close Tonight

DEEPER INTEREST
SHOWN BY PUBLIC

Friday's attendance at the New Castle Auto Dealer's fourth annual show, was exceptional, the attendance last evening being greater than a year ago, although the afternoon attendance was a little smaller many having attended the industrial exhibit during the afternoon a year ago, particularly school children.

The attendance this evening is also expected to eclipse that of last year.

It was an eager yet orderly crowd which thronged the building last evening, and a deep interest was displayed by those present.

Dealers report that the sales which have resulted directly from the show this year in excess of those last year, quite a few orders for cars having been taken by the various dealers.

The fashion revue, which is held each evening between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock again attracted the interest of those in attendance, a fine exhibition having been arranged to show what the ladies, misses, and little tots will be wearing this spring.

Girls from the Quota Club again have a booth at the show for the sale of candy.

Accessory dealers have crammed every available space not occupied by cars, all in all, the exhibition being unquestionably the best that has yet been held.

Tonight will be the last night of the show and it is the expectation of the committee in charge, that a good crowd will be present.

Verdict Stands As Rendered In 1922 Tax Case

Court Refuses New Trial In Case Of County Against Edward E. Umbricht

OTHER OPINIONS BY JUDGE CHAMBERS

One of the long standing cases, growing out of the collection of delinquent county taxes in 1922, was disposed of in an opinion by Judge James A. Chambers today.

The case was that of F. M. Davis, T. J. McCullough and Charles Matthews, commissioners of Lawrence county, for use of the Aetna Casualty Co., against Edward E. Umbricht and Republic Casualty Co. In the opinion a new trial is refused and the prothonotary is directed to enter judgment upon the verdict.

Prior to 1922 collectors of delinquent taxes had retained a commission of five per cent in addition to the five per cent allowed on the face of the duplicates. Following this long established custom Edward E. Umbricht, delinquent collector, as well as other collectors, charged the usual fees.

At that time C. Lee Horner was county treasurer and the auditors surcharged him with 5% of the taxes collected by the collectors. On appeal by the treasurer to common pleas court, judgment was rendered in favor of Horner and he was given credit for the amounts thus paid to collectors. On appeal to the supreme court judgment was reversed and divided to be entered in favor of the county for $4,437.37. The sum for which judgment was entered includes the sum retained by Umbricht and involved in the present action and this suit is an attempt on the part of the Aetna Casualty Co. to recover back the money paid by it as surety for Horner to the County of Lawrence on the surcharge.

The verdict against Umbricht and the Casualty Co., which is sustained by the courts opinion was for $1,814.73 principal and $938.21 interest, amounting to $2,752.94.

Other Decisions
In the case of James C. Grandey, now for use of Universal Credit Co., against C. T. Johnston, judgment re-opened and defendant let in to defense. The case involved a leave agreement for sale of an automobile. In the case of Jennie Nesbit against David Nesbit and Commercial Casualty Insurance Co., exceptions and the appeal are dismissed; the action of the Workmen's Compensation Board in conforming the award of the referee is affirmed and judgment is entered for the claimant and against the defendant for $2,868.75 in accordance with the terms of the award.

In the matter of a petition of Leon Carmello for a view for assessment of damages for grading Lawrence avenue, Ellwood City, the petition is dismissed.

J. D. Marks, now for use of the American Credit Indemnity Co., against Marc Levine and Charles Levine, Martin for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense is refused. The trouble was over some trade acceptances.

Federal Grand Jury Starts Probe Into Capone's Tax Laxity

New Worries For Gangster As Government Checks On Income Taxes

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—"Scarface Al" Capone, at liberty pending an appeal on his six months in jail for Federal contempt, found his trouble steadily increasing today as the Federal grand jury delved deeper into the gang czar's income tax affairs.

Coincident with the decision of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday that Capone must spend six months in prison for allegedly faking an illness to escape a grand jury summons came word from the Federal grand jury that two witnesses had testified as a preliminary to prosecution of the income tax law. The government has been preparing the income tax case for two years.

These two setbacks, together with the order from the Department of Labor at Washington that Tony "Mops" Volpe, chief lieutenant of Capone, be deported immediately combined to make it a disheartening day for the Capone stronghold.

Authorities here agreed that Capone's difficulties combined with Volpe's deportation may seriously weaken the dominant position held by the Capone organization in Chicago's racket world since the demise of their North Side enemies, the Aelzo-Zuta-Moran gang.

Capone's attorneys were given thirty days to file a bill of exceptions for an appeal of the six months jail sentence handed down by Judge Wilkerson on the contempt charge. Capone was admitted to $5,000 bail pending this action and returned last night with his army of bodyguards to the Lexington Hotel, his headquarters during the trial.

Supreme Officers Meet With W. B. A.

At the conclusion of the banquet the members went to the lodge rooms on East Washington street where the evening meeting was held. Mrs. Stone talked to the review and Chicago pageant songs were sung. A solo by Mrs. McCrea of New Brighton Review 221 was enthusiastically received. ## STRANGLING CASE OF VIVIAN GORDON Baffles Officers accept the sinister theory that she was done away with because she had promised to "sneak" on women-framing policemen.

However, the authorities are planning to subject a policeman—Andrew J. McLaughlin of the vice squad—to questioning when he arrives in New York tomorrow from Bermuda, where he has been vacationing. McLaughlin's salary as a "cop" is $3,000 a year.

McLaughlin was the man who arrested Miss Gordon on a vice charge in 1923. For eight years she has held that against him, alleging she was "framed." McLaughlin was named in a letter written by the woman on January 19 of this year to her divorced husband, John Bischoff, of Washington, D. C., as having conspired with Bischoff to "frame her."

Bischoff's statement, made a statement today in which he denied he had entered such a conspiracy and expressed the opinion his sentence to a reformatory in 1923 was not the result of a "frame-up". He promised to do anything he could to aid the authorities, but doubted that he could do much.

Less than 10 days ago Miss Gordon, as the result of her own suggestion, was interviewed by Irving Ben Cooper, an associate counsel in the local vice inquiry, who after hearing her story advised her to obtain evidence to back her charges that she had been "framed."

Two days after Miss Gordon's talk with Cooper Policeman McLaughlin sailed on his cruise to the West Indies.

Meanwhile Sam Cohen, alias Charles Harris, an ex-convict, and John A. Radloff, a Brooklyn lawyer, are each held in $50,000 bail as a material witness. Radloff was Miss Gordon's attorney.

The proceeding against Cohen and Radloff was started by the following words in Miss Gordon's diary: "I fear only one man and he is Radloff, who, if he wanted, could get Cohen and a couple of his henchmen to do away with me." Cohen and Radloff were questioned at length by the authorities.

Although the police refused to make public the contents of Miss Gordon's diaries, Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney did disclose the paragraph in the diary concerning Cohen and Radloff.

The paragraph provided a clue which had the effect of diverting suspicion from the theory that the girl was strangled to death because she was planning to "tell plenty" about crooked policemen.

Another theory which the police accepted plausible was that she might have been slain for the $2,000 mink coat and $2,000 diamond ring she usually wore. In her diary she had indicated a fear she might be robbed. The police were making a thorough search of pawnshops today.

Columbiana Woman Fatally Burned As Home Is Set Afire

Police Believe Burglars Set Fire To Columbiana Home—Three Others Burned

(International News Service)
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 28.—When robbers set fire to the house in Columbiana, which they were looting, one woman was believed fatally burned while three others today were recovering from burns of the hands and feet sustained when they attempted to escape. Mrs. Barbara Berg, 68, wife of former councilman, Charles Berg, was the most seriously burned.

Her three granddaughters, Mrs. Evelyn Halpate, and Dolores and Anne Rabon, were trapped with Mrs. Berg in the second floor bedroom of the home of William Rabon, the aged woman's son-in-law.

When the flames were extinguished Rabon informed police that $285 had been stolen from under a pillow in his bedroom which was untouched by the flames.

Police expressed the theory that burglars had accidentally set fire to the house through the use of matches which they were believed to have dropped to the floor.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Good Mother On Pullman Is Praised

Patient Parent Gives Children Intellectual Training

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

While riding in a Pullman recently I sat not far from a mother who had with her two children. I should guess the older one was four and the younger three.

The children seemed to have good habits of self-control. They were not destructive. They did not run around to invite attention of the other passengers. They annoyed no one.

The mother manifested perfect poise. I never have seen any one more sympathetic toward a child. She read to them and, when they interrupted her reading, to ask a question, she was not disturbed. She always answered patiently. When, by and by, they tired of the book and it was put away the children played—one with his dog, the other with his elephant, visiting with each other and their mother as if all of them were grown up.

Those children must have asked 300 questions in three hours, to all of which the mother made careful, cautious answer, without a sign of emotional disturbance, in her voice or in her face. One child wondered what their daddy might be doing, whether he would meet them at the station, and whether he would bring the dog along. "What is that?" was often stimulated by things seen from the window. The children often volunteered their own interpretation, adding often to the mother's.

Then from one child or the other there were scores of inquiries about matters which to the observer had no relation at all to things present. But there was a reason. Nothing merely happens. Something is the cause. The things which pop into the head of the little child, not unlike the things which flash into ours, have had a source, even when we are unfamiliar with that source.

Those little children's minds were working fast. The mother helped to keep them working. As she satisfied their curiosity they became more curious. They were getting intellectual training. No formal education will they ever get which will be nearly equal in its value to their mental growth from this experience on the train with their mother. They were learning from the greatest teacher in the greatest school they will ever attend. And they didn't know they were learning. Perhaps the mother didn't. She was just being a good mother.

Her voice and face betrayed enjoyment and the children looked entirely satisfied. Her speech was beautiful, with clear, soft, mellow tones, most of which I could hear two chairs away, above the clatter of the speeding train. Each word was uttered with distinctiveness and her English was the very best.

The train at last pulled into the station. As I leaped the door, the mother on her knees helping the smallest, had found a penny he had dropped, was quietly answering his latest question.

When I reached the vestibule the train gave a vigorous bump, followed by "What do they do that for?" I could not hear the answer, but I know that it was given. Down the steps I went to get my bag, saying to myself, "What a wonderful mother!"

INCOME TAX FACTS

NO. 24

Depreciation, defined as "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property, used in trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence," constitutes an important item in the returns of many taxpayers. A deduction for depreciation must be confined to property actually used in trade, business, profession, or vocation. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which can not be deducted as a business expense. Depreciation may be claimed on all business property, which includes not only buildings and machinery of a permanent character, but automobiles, farm tractors, mine and mill equipment, office furniture, and books.

Depreciation of a home or property used for pleasure or convenience, such as an automobile, can not be claimed. Depreciation due to changes in the social or business conditions of a neighborhood, or changes of street grade, or fluctuations of market values can not be claimed. Depreciation of land, whether improved or unimproved, can not be claimed. When in the course of years the owner of property has claimed depreciation to the extent of its cost, no further claim will be allowed.

Business property kept in repair may be the subject of a depreciation allowance. The allowance for depreciation is intended to cover the estimated lessening in value of the original property, due to the wear and tear, decay, etc., which in time will require the abandonment or replacement of the property.

Peter's Adventures

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Lots can happen in a moment. The friendly little Beetles had become foes. Peter was sure of it from the manner in which they glared at him.

"Now, what have I done to make those insects cross?" Peter said to himself, ready to cut and run if the Beetles made any threatening motions. Under the circumstances the boy was glad of the interruption.

"Chirping crickets! There you go again, bumping into me and getting your silly legs all tangled up with mine!" exclaimed a grumbling voice. "Why in time can't you ever look where you are going?"

"For the same reason that you never go where you are looking!" came the sharp reply. "And I'd thank you not to make any unfavorable remarks about my legs! They are as good as yours, and have taken me as far as yours have taken you."

"Stuff and nonsense!" retorted the first speaker. "If you had any sense at all you would never say a thing like that. Even a baby insect knows that eight legs can travel faster and farther than six."

"Boast and show your ignorance," Granther came the reply. "Six legs and two wings can beat eight legs any time. But don't take my word for it—ask anyone!"

Peter peeped down from his perch on the goldenrod stalk and saw two insects facing each other beneath the stalk. As he watched the two angry little insects rushed at each other and then all the boy could distinguish were legs, wildly kicking. All argument over. The insects, whoever they were fighting over a difference of opinion.

County Federation Of Women's Clubs

Women's Clubs were organized primarily, for the benefit of the individual woman. No thought of those early clubs went beyond that of furnishing a means for woman to satisfy her pent-up desire to go out side of self for that which would enrich her own life.

How far we have come in these few years of club life is exemplified in the work of the Department of International Relations in the Federation of Women's Clubs. For several years this department has been sponsoring programs that will acquaint club women with the environment of other peoples that is always such a telling factor in the shaping of individual and national life.

Through these programs women's eyes are opened to the scenic beauty of other lands and through their own love of beauty and pride in the soul-thrilling landscapes of their own land they can appreciate the stir and devotion of other souls to beauty that is theirs.

The study of governing laws that throttle lives and ambition creates an understanding sympathy for those who are rebelling against or are in enforced resignation to the underlying power that holds much of the world's population in bondage to arrogant, selfish rulers.

The knowledge of history that records the struggles of a people, not only for a "place in the sun" but for culture and a mastery of the arts, creates a respect that overshadows prejudice.

The understanding of a people's religion that lashes and coves them with fear or bids them to stand up right before God who would help them to an abundant life marks the possibilities and the needs as well, of a nation.

The great need of a better understanding of our Latin American neighbors through a knowledge of their environment is being stressed by the Department of International Relations.

A national chairman says: "No people can be understood aside from their environment, and if they are, the artistic future of Latin America must be assured. Its scenic beauty fascinates those who come within its spell."

A gentleman from Ecuador, commenting on our study program and other projects to come into a closer knowledge of one another said: "It will be wonderful in result for when you understand us better we will not hear what I heard a few months ago—a university professor telling hundreds of students that trade with the Latin Americans will not develop until the Latin Americans are civilized! And when our own people know better the people of America we shall not hear in my country the American spoken of as commercial and greedy and not caring for things of the Spirit. It is the women of the nation doing just what the women of this Federation are doing that will bring about real understanding and lasting friendship."

In the midst of the recent political difficulties in Brazil, the leading newspaper, O Jornal Do Commercio, printed on its iron page in bold type, double column width, a prayer. This was embodied in that prayer they will fall who have built their power on the strength of their armies! They will disappear who have made of science the divinity of their altars! They will also pass away who trust in the gold and silver of their wealthy treasures! And the happiness of which they dream outside Thy law shall remain forever as the sphinx in the dumb and melancholy immensity of the desert! Lord, come Thou and reign, over us."

It is the understanding knowledge that we are gaining that must precede the out reach of a friendly, helpful hand with a grip that is sure of its power.

It would be well if all clubs were in accord with this great purpose motivating this department and would devote at least a part of their programs to this study.

SAYS WOMEN ARE BETTER
(International News Service)
PARIS, Feb. 28—Women are far better than men, according to Professor D. Kastorikis, former director of Criminal Affairs in Greece and Crete declared to the League of Nations, speaking recently before the Paris Law School. "Most criminals are masculine," said Dr. Kastorikis.

Vital Statistics—Chorus girls have a tough time. Ziegfeld glorifies 'em, Johns feed 'em and millionaires marry 'em.

Chronic Invalidism In Family Discouraged As Being Unwholesome

Folk Who Consume Medicine Wholesale Better See Or Read "The Barretts of Wimpole Street"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
There are a great many people, indeed a great many families, who should go in mass to Miss Katharine Cornell's play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street". If they do not happen to be in New York or any other city where it is playing, they should get the book of the play and read it.

I recommend this as a method of treatment. It is a very pleasant kind of dose, I should say, because the play is one of thrilling interest, and the mere sight and sound of Miss Cornell is a kind of glory in itself.

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street" concerns itself with the household of Edward Barrett, the father of the poetess Elizabeth Barrett, at the time when Robert Browning proposed marriage to her. Miss Barrett had always been supposed to be an invalid. She spent most of her time on a couch in a semi-darkened room. She was alleged to have something the matter with her spine. She was guarded against all shock, all excitement, all the incidents of the outside world.

This myth that she was unable to endure the experience of life was fostered largely by her father. He was a curious sort of domestic tyrant, common enough, well meaning enough perhaps, and convinced of his own rightness, but in reality as cruel as if his heart had been made of flint. Elizabeth was constantly reminded that she was too weak or sickly for ordinary activities, of the dreadful consequences which might follow breaking her imprisonment.

She lived, as Chesterton says, in that "most poisonous and degrading of all atmospheres—a medical atmosphere." I thoroughly agree with him. Everyone must know twenty or more families who breathe such air, at home where medicine bottles litter the cupboards, where aloe and aspirin are consumed by the household, and death and disease stalk about the furniture. Medical men though I am, I believe that for such people the doctrine of our brothers, the Christian Scientists, would be a wholesome thing.

In the case of Elizabeth Barrett, the proof of the pudding is known. She threw off the miasma of her father's house, she left her couch and her darkened room, and eloped with Robert Browning. For sixteen years she lived a free and healthy life, she bore him a child. Never once in all those crowded years was there any suggestion that her "spine" was any worse than anybody else's, or that it was in any way necessary for her health to be confined to bed in Wimpole Street.

Hint gently to some of your friends who live in a medical atmosphere that they go to see this play. Of course it cannot be guaranteed how much good it will do them. The tenacity with which some people cling to a life of invalidism is a perpetual wonder. I understand the surviving members of the Barrett family protested violently when the play was produced in London. So I gather they are still at it, and in dark corners of silent English houses they meet and complain in whispers that Spirits of Ammonia are not mixed as strong as they used to be.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Mrs. E. R. J.: "Please advise concerning the success of X-ray treatment for uterine hemorrhage."
Answer: In many cases X-rays are completely successful in uterine hemorrhage. They are always worth trying first as a primary method of treatment. If not successful, there is no reason why surgery cannot be employed afterwards.

Test Is Passed

The meeting of Troop 37 was held recently at the Arthur McGill school. The meeting was in charge of Howell Williams. The Patrol meetings were held with five members present in the Raven Patrol and five in the Snake Patrol.

The business meeting was in charge of Howell Williams. The man who is going to take the troop on a hike is going to be looked after by Mr. Cleal, the troop committee man. The visitors were introduced by the members that brought them. The business meeting was then closed.

James Graustreiter passed his first class first aid test. Bill Hufman and Charles Kennedy passed their tenderfoot tests.

The games played were dodgeball and another game in which the two Patrol leaders stood the troop. The score was a tie. The meeting was then closed by the scout oath, laws, and the Lord's Prayer.

Nearly Hundred Vets Await Bonus

Applications Are Placed On File
With Red Cross For Additional Loan

Almost a hundred applications are now on file in the office of the Lawrence County Red Cross, for loans on their Adjusted Service Certificates by local World War Veterans, providing the bonus bill now up in Congress is passed by the Senate over the President's signature.

Commander Stoner of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, stated today that the measure will not be particularly beneficial to the veterans, contrary to the belief of many who are unfamiliar with the situation.

The law now before the Senate for final action, would enable veterans to make an additional loan on the bonus certificates, but carries the provision that interest at the rate of four and one half per cent, compounded, be paid.

It will provide additional funds for veterans who are unemployed and need the money, but they will lose in the long run, because the high interest rate will cut down the face of the certificate if it is not paid.

The national organization of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will go before Congress next year with the same proposal, that an outright payment of the bonus be made. It has been one of the main items on their legislative program for several years, and will continue to be so, until paid.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Storm wave of moderate force expected to cross continent in central transcontinental storm path during week centering on 26, will be preceded by a moderate cold wave, will cause moderate warm wave during passage of storm center and moderate but general precipitation during entire storm period; following this storm center, a moderate cold wave will be expected to cover continent, probably reaching as far south as the Gulf from Louisiana eastward with light to moderate frosts during last days of February and first days of March.

Most storm waves in North America travel in what is called the transcontinental storm paths. For convenience, the transcontinental storms, storms that travel across North America from west to east, averaging about three and a half days apart and taking about seven days to travel from Pacific to Atlantic ocean, are divided into three groups. Of the total storms crossing North America during a period of years, about seven out of ten belong to the northern group and stay close to the dividing line between the U. S. and Canada, two out of ten belong to the central group and travel south to about latitude 37, one out of ten belongs to the southern group and travel south to the Gulf states. As an average, storms move farther south during winter months than they do during summer months.

Cropweather Features Expected
During March, March will average below normal temperatures and about normal precipitation for the month for the continent. Heaviest precipitation for the month expected in east parts of sections one, three and five, north of eight and all of seven. Temperatures will average too cool for best results in south, but no unusually late killing frosts or cold waves expected during this month. Lowest temperatures during month expected to center on 7 and 23, warm periods centering on 16 and 28. Moderately severe storms expected to cross continent during week centering on 21, moderate storms centering on 4 and 10 will all three cause northern cold waves and southern cool waves. Severe storms centering on 16 and moderate storms centering on 23 will be expected to cause warm waves extending far into the north. Cold wave centering on 7 lowest and warm wave centering on 28 the highest temperatures of month. Excepting that month will average too cool

THE "SYSTEM" FALLACY.
I'm going to quote again my favorite line from Ed Howe: "A reasonable probability is the only certainty."

That's Ed's indirect, elusive and subtle way of saying that there's no such thing as certainty in this world.

There's no such thing as a "reasonable probability." When you're dealing with "chance" what's gone before has nothing to do with what's going to happen.

The authorities at Monte Carlo know that and therefore hand out their statistics freely. If the statistics were of any use they would not be so readily provided.

The gambler believes that by closely studying the results that have been obtained, he may be able to foretell the results that will be obtained.

This is the great illusion upon which the prosperity of every gambling joint on earth, from Monte Carlo to the New York Stock Exchange, depends.

METABOLISM OF A SUCKER.
Two years ago E. P. Dutton published a dollar book that's worth buying. It's by Norwood Young and is called: "Fortuna—or Chance and Design."

The author points out that whenever a man exposes himself to an avoidable risk, he's prompted, by instinct, to "buy" a ticket.

He says Norwood Young, "knows that he is only one of a large number of persons theoretically equal to himself; but he thinks he has a better chance than any other ticket holder. However clearly he may see that he is only one of a thousand, he buys the ticket because he feels that there is something in him which no other man has. All staking is governed by the expectation of winning. There may be anxiety, fear, despondency, but they are overcome by a secret conviction that the staker is on terms of special intimacy with the scheme of things. If he didn't feel this way, he wouldn't risk his money."

WHY BROKERS BROKE.
In Fred C. Kelly's tremendously human volume, "Why You Win or Lose—The Psychology of Speculation" (incidentally a book it wouldn't hurt the Pew Holders to get hold of and peruse, now that the stock market is staggering to its feet again), Fred lists Vanity as one of the four great enemies to stock market success.

"Men mortgage their homes," he says, "to raise more money to give to the broker when, swallowing pride a little sooner, and taking a small loss, they would have avoided most of the trouble."

And he adds: "The greater a man's vanity the surer he is of his shrewdness."

"DEAD CERT."
So far as gambling of any kind is concerned, there's only one "law of probability."

That's the probability that you'll go broke if you stick at the game long enough.

Smith Sentenced To County Jail
Harry Smith, proprietor of a gasoline station on the Butler road was sentenced to the county jail on two charges of failing to pay his gasoline taxes, by Judge Hildebrand this morning. He was given two months on each charge, the terms to run concurrently. In addition he must pay $25 fine and costs. The amount of the delinquent tax was around $3600. When Smith was before the court some time ago an extension of time was given him in which to pay, as it was believed at that time that he would be able to raise the money.

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Old Doc Bushey, professor of math at Hunter College, advises young women taking the business statistics course to get a pair of dice and go to work with 'em—home work, of course—as a means of perfecting themselves on the Theory of Probabilities.

Incidentally, the Doc has provided every Freckled Cube Impresario in Tammany Town with an alibi.

"You're charged with playin' African Golf, prisoner. Guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty, yeroner. I wuz merely testin' out Doc Bushey's findin's on de Teery o' Prob'ilities. . . ."

LIST OF THE HOST.
There isn't anything novel in the Doc's experiment. Theory and fact, affecting the "laws of chance" have been compared time and time again. Buffon tossed a coin 4,000 times. Professor Karl Pearson tossed a coin 25,000 times. Wolf, the Swiss mathematician, threw a die 280,000 times. The Society which owns the Casino at Monte Carlo are so confident that the "laws of chance" are permanently in its favor that it publishes the records of all plays. These tabulated details which are handed out free to gamblers provide ideal material for the practical man who distrusts abstract reasoning.

Noted Singers From Aliquippa To Be Soloists

Much Interest Being Manifested In Song Festival To Be Held Sunday

REV. WILLIAMS WILL BE CHAIRMAN

In the Festival of Song to be held Sunday afternoon and evening at the First Congregational church, East Reynolds street, some of the outstanding soloists of Aliquippa will participate, also hundreds of people not only from this city but many Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania points.

Rev. Rees T. Williams, pastor of the church, will be chairman of both the afternoon session held at 2 o'clock and the evening session held at 7 o'clock.

Included in the large delegation coming from Aliquippa will be the following soloists, Samuel Evans, who will render a bass solo, Mrs. Brown James, who will render a soprano solo, and Mrs. David T. Johns and Mrs. David B. Jones, who will be heard in a duet number.

The Aliquippa Male Chorus directed by Mr. Sims and the New Castle Male Chorus directed by Prof. Allan B. Davis of Westminster College, will be heard in a number of selections during the afternoon and evening and also in several numbers in which they will combine. The combined choruses will be heard among other numbers in "Martyrs of the Arena" by DeRill, and "The Crusaders." The words of the latter selection were written by the Hon. R. J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth in the cabinet of Governor Gifford Pinchot.

The music is by Prof. Daniel Protheroe, noted Welsh musician of Chicago. Dr. Protheroe is internationally known as a composer and choir director, being called upon annually to act as an adjudicator in the National Eisteddfod of Wales.

Singing of the famous Welsh hymns, which are noted as being of the deepest religious type and fervor, will be sung by the assembled congregations at both sessions.

A supper will be served in the church dining room between sessions and is being arranged primarily for the visiting delegations. It is anticipated that quite a number will participate in it as well as the sessions of the festival.

The entire proceeds of the afternoon will be given to the Mayor's Relief Committee to help carry on its work here.

You Are Not "Good Pay" Unless You Pay Promptly

Some folks flatter themselves that they are "good pay" because they always pay something on account every month, although they never clear it off.

The modern store has a credit manager. Upon his judgment the prosperity of the store depends. It is his duty to approve or reject credit applications. There was a time when only the "rich" could obtain credit, but the modern credit manager has changed this. He reasons that anyone who pays promptly is entitled to credit accommodation.

Whether prompt, slow or indifferent, your paying habits are recorded in the files of the New Castle Credit Exchange. Give yourself the name of being "prompt pay". The only way you can do this is by paying promptly—it's the only way you can keep your credit good in this community.

GENEVA, WESTMINSTER READY FOR TONIGHT'S CLASSIC FLOOR TILT

Covenantors Will Try To Duplicate Early Victory

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 28.—All, all is in readiness for the Geneva-Westminster basketball game here tonight. Telephones have been ringing all week in Graduate Manager Andy McDonald's office as fans from near and far have sought tickets for the game. The mails have been heavy from ticket requests. Every available seat will be taken.

And why? Well a victory for Westminster will give the Titans their third conference championship of the last six campaigns, while a victory for Geneva will tie the Titans and the Bethany Bisons for the honor. Geneva, too, holds a decision over the Titans, for the Loeffler crew played good ball to defeat Westminster at New Brighton a month ago.

Both teams are in good physical shape, though Geneva has the tougher assignment, having played two games this week already to one by Westminster.

Tonight's game will perhaps be the last for Marshall "Tarzan" Fisher, steady guard on the Titan team. Fisher is the only senior on the Westminster squad. None of the Geneva players are seniors.

Last night's strenuous game with Allegheny should put the Geneva team on edge for tonight's battle. With a freshman, Aultman, to show them the way to play, the floor work of the Beaver Falls crew will be beautiful to watch.

Chaperoned by their cheer leader Doodle Douds, Geneva will descend upon New Wilmington tonight en masse. A large block of tickets have been sent to Graduate Manager Edgecombe, and many others will try to get seats at the last moment.

"Pops" Harrison plans to start either Douglass and Koehner or Hamas and Sillander at forward, Brownlee at center, and Captain Rice and Fisher at guard. Coach Loeffler of the Covenantors will likely start Fair and Manning at forward, Sole at center, and Captain Montgomery and Aultman at guard.

Lineups:

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Another chapter was written in the Billy Petrolle-King Tut feud last night in New York when Petrolle stopped Tut in the fourth round, thereby evening the score with Tut. Betting odds make the Philadelphia Athletics prohibitive favorites to win their third consecutive American league pennant, but no definite choice is established in the National league. St. Louis, Brooklyn and Chicago are quoted 5 to 2 to win. The odds are quoted by Tom Kearney, the St. Louis bookmaker, whose prices are accepted all over the country.

Down in Dixie Base Ball Notes

It may be good form in some ball camps to look shy and retiring when pennants are mentioned—but not here with the Brooklyn Robins. The Flatbush crew just about consider themselves "in."

From such star vets as Dazzy Vance and Glenn Wright down to the red-necked rookies, the Robins are talking world series talk.

If self confidence wins big league championships that National league banner is already half way up the flag pole that just skyward above Ebbets Field.

Even Uncle Wilbert Robinson is grinning wide grins, but that's chiefly because his holdout troubles are less than most managers.

So eager are the Robins regulars for the fray that many infielders have poured into camp before schedule, some arriving a week ahead of the time Manager Robinson was expecting them.

To make the squad happier, Del Bissonette, held back last season by illness, reported feeling great and a good 20 pounds heavier.

Adolfo Luque, vet Cuban hurler who usually reports late, came into town a week before Robbie. Luque has smelled big doings this season and he wants to be sure he will be in first-class shape.

But the happiest men of all for the club was the fact that Judge K. M. Landis baseball czar, came to Clearwater just to welcome hobbie and his boys.

Pitt Panthers Defeat Tech In Fast Game 27-25

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 28.—The University of Pittsburgh today held the city championship in basketball for this season with their exciting victory over Carnegie Tech last night by a two point margin, 27-25. The Panthers swept the series by their second win last night over the Skibos.

Pitt's great football star, Eddie Eaker, proved the stumbling block for the Tartans. Two timely shots, one coming at the end of the first half which evened up the Pitties with their ancient rivals and the other at the end of the game which gave Pitt its winning points, made Eaker the undisputed hero of the contest.

Playing was fast and sensational throughout with the victor in doubt until the dying moments of the game.

Waynesburg Tops Bethany 35-33

(International News Service)
BETHANY, W. Va., Feb. 28.—Bethany's lead of four points at the end of the first half in their meeting with Waynesburg here last night dwindled away in the face of a vicious rally on the part of the visiting crew, and today the Bisons were compelled to acknowledge their rivals a better floor team. Staging a complete upset, the Waynesburg passers, led by their center, Jansik, who garnered 7 field goals, swept the opposition before them and won out by two points at the final whistle, 35-33.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

On the Pacific slope where athletes grow large and boisterous (see 1929 Pittsburgh football squad for further particulars) the University of Southern California is preparing to indulge in something akin to a sports come-back.

So rapid had been Southern California's athletic rise that just a year ago when the Trojans rode the crest with twin coast titles in football and basketball and a track squad that was girding itself for national triumphs, many Trojans thought the millennium had arrived. The sun was to shine forever on U. S. C. Then came the eclipse of October, 1930, and the long drought which has not ended yet.

The first blow to Trojan sport supremacy fell when Washington State's upstarts polished off Southern California, 7-6, as the grid season got under way. That was a smack, right on the button, but El Trojan grabbed the ropes, weathered the round and came back strong.

In fact, the Trojans came back so handsomely that by early December loyal Southern Californians regarded the season's finale, the Notre Dame game, as the contest which would decide the national grid title.

The Irish did it to U. S. C. during that game is now bitter history, too recent to repeat. Suffice it to say that the afternoon featuring Notre Dame undergraduates going places with a football.

In California the sun quickly heals the wounds of sport defeat and the champion Trojan basketball team was soon engrossed in the business of trying to repeat.

Up to almost the very end of the season Southern California had a chance to take the southern championship of the Coast conference when California nosed out the Trojans by wallowing Stanford.

Thus, in five short months two crowns were knocked from the Trojans' head. Southern California's immediate come-back attempt will take place on the cinder path. Equipped with one of the swiftest looking track and field crews that ever warmed a mentor's heart, Coach Dean Cromwell is plotting his war for another bid at the intercollegiate and national collegiate crowns, both won by the Trojans in 1930.

Topping the list of stars is Frank Wykoff, holder of the world's 100-yard dash record. Others include Bill Carle, intercollegiate 220-yard hurdles champ; Bob Hall, shot; Woessner, 440 men; Milt Maurer, printer; Bill McGeehan, 880 man; and Bill Stokes, high hurdler. Yep, that Trojan sport depression seems about over!

Geneva Defeats Allegheny 34-28

(International News Service)
BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 28.—A ten minute rally in the dying moments of the game today brought a victory laurel to Geneva over Allegheny college, after the respective floor teams of the two colleges battled it out to a 34-28 victory for the Covenantors. Although they were lagging, 8 points in arrears at the end of the first half, The Genevans launched a drive in the last ten minutes of the fray which swept them on to their four point triumph. Loss of players by Allegheny in the second period contributed materially to their setback.

WANT GAMES
The fast stepping Home Street Stars, floor team would like to arrange games with all fast teams in the city or county. Games are wanted with Tiger Stripes, Ibis, Carnegie, Lincoln and Garfield or any other fast quintets. Games with this team can be arranged by calling 9086-J and asking for Gairdo.

During the first year under prohibition there were 29,000 cases instituted while during the last fiscal year there were close to 70,000.

Rival Leaders In Tonight's Conference Basketball Classic

When Westminster and Geneva meet tonight in a game which will settle the Tri-State Conference championship on the Titan court, two of the best guards in the district will be on hand to exhibit their stuff. They are Captain Lindsay Montgomery of Geneva and Captain Phil Rice of Westminster.

Montgomery, a junior, is playing his third season for Geneva as is Rice for Westminster. Both men have received all-district and all-conference mention, and both are offensive as well as defensive stars.

Petrolle Kayoes King Tut, Boxing Board Suspicious

Investigation Ordered Into Bout In New York—Purses Held Up

KING TUT SUFFERS SWOLLEN APPENDIX

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Some 14,000 fight fans who left Madison Square Garden last night enthused over what they believed was the best scrap put on there in months, awoke today to find a cloud of suspicion marring Billy Petrolle's sensational four-round knockout of King Tut, his erstwhile nemesis.

Tut, who put the Fargo, N. D., lightweight to sleep in half a minute in their last meeting at St. Paul recently and who ruined him in two previous chapters of their five-year ring feud, was battered from pillar to post by Petrolle last night. After an impressive start, the Minneapolis junior lightweight offered little resistance to the smashing blows of his lighter opponent, being floored three times before the knockout.

Five minutes after the fight ended, the members of the New York Boxing Commission, who were at the ringside, announced that the purses of both fighters would be held up pending an investigation. They probably will be held before the board at next Tuesday's meeting.

Swollen Appendix
Three minutes after this boom-rang exploded, Tut was suddenly reported to be suffering from a swollen appendix. Physicians called to his dressing room declared Tut might have to undergo an immediate operation and he was removed to a hospital.

Five minutes before the bout started, Tut told newspaper men he was in superb condition and would knock out Petrolle in the first round.

A further significant feature of the affair was that while Tut was the favorite at 8 to 5 two days ago, so much Petrolle money appeared at the last minute that Billy became a slight favorite to win.

That is one side of the story. The other is that most newspapermen at the ringside thought that the fight was a corking good one and strictly on the up-and-up. If the affair was a "barney," the writer would like to see more like it, for the scrap was a thriller from start to finish.

Though born on Cuba's sunny soil, Miguel (Mike) Gonzalez was sent to Cincinnati. The Reds sent him to St. Louis and he toiled for the Cardinals from 1915 until the end of the World war.

The armistice found Mike on his way to the Giants, but he lasted a couple of seasons in the metropolis, John McGraw shipping him to St. Paul. The Cards rescued him from the minors in 1925 and almost immediately sent him to Chicago in a trade.

Now in the sunset of his career, Mike once more dons a Cardinal uniform, the St. Louis club having Lean, leathery, sad-faced Miguel still hangs on in the big time because he has such a varied experience, having caught the slants of almost half of the great National league hurlers of the last two decades. This has made him a valuable man to have around, a man able to teach many things to young hurriers and yet be able to step in there and catch a hard game himself.

Dense Crowds Wait In Rain In London To Catch Glimpse Of Comedian

Hart Asks Golfers To Stay Off Course

Municipal Course In Good Shape, But Ground Is Too Soggy To Permit Play

Manager Walter "Hub" Hart of the municipal golf course on the Ellwood City road today requested that the golfing fraternity kindly observe the no trespassing signs at the course and stay off the grounds.

There have been a number of golfers at the many course lately who persist in taking their clubs and practicing shots. The ground is too soggy at this time of year to permit such a practice. In fairness to the large number who will play this summer and owing to the fact that council has not yet designated a starting time for the golf season, the public is asked to stay off the municipal course.

Right now the course is in good shape and with several weeks of dry weather may be ready for play about the middle of April.

WARD NEWS

ie Of Building

er Of South Ash-Lacock Streets at Entirely Removed

The last pieces of timber from the old house at the corner of South Ashland avenue and Lacock street are being removed today. Soon nothing material of that old canal house will remain.

This old house, being torn down by the present owner William Smal, shows the wood craftsmanship of another generation. During the past several days a great number of local people have watched the old building being removed and have been greatly interested in the splendid way it had been constructed.

According to older residents of the district, this house was built in 1840 by James Gwinn. Those were the days when the old Erie Canal was in its glory. It faced the canal and it was there that Joe Ewing had his store.

It is built of 8x8 virgin oak, dovetailed by the lumber jacks crude edges, home-made oak lathe splinted and with countersunk matted pine, 1 1/2 inch thick for floors and roofing. It shows the solid, sound, reliable different woods that were cheap in those days.

HOPE FOR ROAD

Residents of seventh ward, Sunnyside and Mt. Jackson are hoping that the road from the Mt. Jackson highway to the powder works at Covert's station will be repaired and slugged. It is a route to Covert's station that, if slugged, is much better than the road from the Youngstown highway to Covert's Station. The latter road has three dangerous railroad crossings.

PHILLIPS RECOVERS

C. H. Phillips of Springfield, Ill., a former resident of seventh ward, is reported to be considerably improved from a recent serious illness and is now able to be out.

Flock Of Crows Makes Stop Here

Montgomery avenue extension was the setting for the "annual gathering" of the crows, Thursday afternoon, and they made such a fuss about it that people from several blocks away came to see what was going on.

Chatter and cawing were the chief pastimes of the afternoon hours. They also (like the chocolate cat) flitted from this leafy limb to that. Later, after all members of the crow family had arrived, they gave several last caw-caws, several stretches of the wings and took to flight. Heading northward, the flock of over 100 crows soared high in the sky. The reunion has been a great success.

HOME FROM CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Raney and son Paul of this ward have returned home from Barrie in Ontario, Canada, where they spent a number of days. It is plenty cold in Canada, according to the local visitors, and there is lots of snow where they were staying. This is the first time they have made a visit to Ontario at this time of year.

For the past 30 years interior Canada has always been a rendezvous for members of the Raney family. Not a summer during that period has been missed and they hope to go again this summer.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Just why a fellow should pay forty cents (eighty if you took some one) to get into a place that creates dissatisfaction is a question, but I did that thing last night. Went around to the automobile show, and customers some of those models on display are what the doctor ordered.

Great long snooty looking jobs, that seemed to have their nose stuck in the air most of the time, and after looking at the price I had mine in the air. They couldn't insult me by quoting some of those prices.

But on the other hand, if you're looking for wonderful values this season in cars, get a load of the show boats they have on display up at the Cathedral. Anything from $600 to $3500, and you'll get your money's worth in any class.

And don't forget the AAA. Just inside the door, the first place in and the last place as you come out. A membership, an insurance policy, a national circle of friends and a card all for ten bucks.

Ray Perry is heard from again. You remember Ray. Shook the dust off our fair city about two years ago and went out to grow up with the west. Is located in Pittsburgh, California with the Columbia Steel Company.

Ray could always bowl a fair game, sing a fairly good bathroom baritone, and talk a nice game of bridge. To these achievements he has added one more, boosting. How that boy goes on about California.

Takes the newspapers of the east to task for speaking about the "mist" they had in Los Angeles some time ago. The account was that the mist was piled up to the second floor and the folks were getting out in boats, but according to Ray, that's all cockeyed.

Says he has taken on 30 pounds since he left, which puts him up at the 185 mark. Here and there interspersed in his letter, like raisins in an old fashioned rice pudding is the usual crack about "the wonderful climate."

John Brisbane of Boyles Avenue has been visiting him. Mr. Brisbane is doing things up in a large way it seems. After looking over the entire Pacific Coast he is leaving Frisco by boat for Panama and New York City.

Just between us friends, and it isn't to go any further, that California climate stuff doesn't go down as big with me as it used to. After talking to the people of Phoenix, Arizona, I got the impression that the climate California uses, is merely second grade stuff that Arizona discarded.

And fruit! You should hear those desert lads roar about the fruit they grow. But whatever, we're always glad to hear from Ray Perry, even if his letters do drip with honeyed phrases for old Cal.

Just in case you have forgotten it, two of the Saints get a play inside of the next two weeks. St. David the patron saint of Wales has his inning on March 1st, and St. Patrick for the Irish on March 17th. And if you must know, the flower to be worn for St. David is a daffodil. Now go ahead, ask me why.

By the time the daffodil is wilted, you'll be ready for the shamrock.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Mrs. D. C. Schnebly At Cherry Tree When Monument Is Unveiled

Mrs. D. C. Schnebly, wife of the pastor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, recalls the day of the unveiling of the monument marking the site of the famous cherry tree told about in Monday's News.

Mrs. Schnebly's father, Vincent Tonkin, a resident of Cherry Tree, was instrumental in having this monument placed and his daughter and a sister of Mrs. Schnebly, Mrs. Maxie McCormick, unveiled the monument.

An interesting story of how the boundary of the purchase of land was to be determined was recalled by Mrs. Schnebly, the western boundary being determined by the paddling of a canoe up the west branch of the Susquehanna and as far as William Penn could paddle was to be the extent of the land; then after they had grounded the canoe at Cherry Tree another boundary was to be marked by as far as Penn, his guide and two Indians could walk in a day. This was from Cherry Tree to Kittanning, a distance of 44 miles "as the crow flies". The Indians became very tired along the trip, as they did not want to walk too far, fearing the white men were getting too much ground.

Mrs. Schnebly was present at the unveiling of this monument at Cherry Tree and her home has been in that district, her father having settled there many years ago.

Old Canal House Being Torn Down

Old Structure At Lacock Street
And Ashland Avenue
Meets Waterloo

While workmen are dismantling an old frame building at the corner of Lacock street and South Ashland avenue, pioneer citizens are recalling the days of the canal, when that same building was located on the bank and was in the midst of a thriving market center.

The building being torn down is one of the very few remaining canal houses. In the days of its prime it was known as Joseph Ewing's liquor store. The property is now owned by William Smiel.

Workmen engaged in removing the structure have found that there are few nails in the boards. It was built with the original oak matted and has wooden hexagon joints.

Observations In 7th Ward

Residents of North Cedar, Clayton and Liberty streets who own radios are complaining about the noise in the reception, caused by the passing trolley cars. There has been talk during the past several days of circulating a petition asking for action in eliminating the unnecessary static. Some trolley cars seem to cause more noise in the radios than others, according to local citizens.

Seventh Ward was bedecked with flags, Monday, in observance of George Washington's birthday. A number of local residents had flags hanging from upper story windows and on porches. There were flags at many of the corners in front of stores, in windows and in the public park across from the B. and O. station. That was a pretty one suspended from the fire department window.

Postoffice, bank and library were closed all day Monday, in observance of the nationally recognized holiday.

A local gas station has another business on the side—that of keeping baby buggies in storage while the mothers do their shopping. The mothers don't leave the babies at the gas station—just the carriages.

Heard on South Liberty street—"Hello, Candle." The salutation was directed toward a tall and very thin young man.

Signs of the season can always be spied at the Mahoning school. Yesterday we noticed red, white and blue paper hatchets on the classroom windows.

Dogs can't read newspapers, so we can speak freely. There is a dog, owned by a North Liberty street family, that is surely the most ugly in town. He has buck teeth, bleary eyes and lop-sided ears.

Workmen spent several hours, Monday afternoon, in repairing telephone wires on Mahoning avenue.

There should be some splendid flower beds in this district in the summer, judging from the care that is being given them. Many of the beds have been covered with straw.

The Turner pigeons seem to have invented a game strictly their own. It resembles "Ring Around the Rosy" and the object seems to be to get dizzy. For a long time, Monday afternoon, a flock of the pigeons soared around and around the loft in small circles. Perhaps they were doing some high power training for the coming racing season.

Someone learned too hard on a fence post in front of the North Liberty corner of Madison avenue and North Cedar street. It broke straight off at the base.

OAKMONT SUNDAY
Mr. and Mrs. Greyson Coates and H. G. Coates, of North Liberty street, were at Oakmont, Pa., on Sunday, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coates.

RETURN HOME
Mr. and Mrs. George M. Fulkerson and son, of Patterson Heights, Beaver Falls, have returned home after staying here for several days, the guests of friends and relatives.

NEW MEMBER
A new member was taken into the Amazon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Monday evening, during the regular meeting of the organization in the K. of P. hall, on Cherry street.

The larger part of the evening was spent in caring for regular business matters.

VISITING HERE
Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dungan, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the week end here, at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dungan on Newell avenue.

WEEK END HERE
Mrs. Lillian McCullough, of Pittsburgh, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin of Youngstown, Ohio, were guests of friends here over the week end. Mrs. McCullough, formerly Miss Lillian Daugherty, is well known here, and is a former resident of seventh ward.

CHANGE LINE
Workmen were engaged, Monday afternoon, in changing one of the water lines, near the corner of Liberty street and Madison avenue. The line was diverted a short distance north from the old location.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS
Mrs. A. J. Edson, of Cherry street, has returned home after spending the past five weeks in Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Raney, of West Madison avenue, have spent the past week in Canada and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nicholson, of Ellwood City, spent yesterday in seventh ward.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Morgogni, of near Moravia, spent Monday with friends and relatives in Kent, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kelley, of North Swansboro avenue, were guests of relatives and friends in Painesville, Ohio, Monday.

John Stritzinger, of Wabash avenue, is getting along fairly well in the Jameson Memorial hospital. He may undergo an operation.

Thermostatic Plan
Control On Nashes

Each of the four new groups of Nash cars will be represented at this year's display of the Gunton Motors Co., local dealers in the local auto show.

Models on display reveal advancements in engineering and body design, comfort, safety and convenience, unequaled in 15 years of Nash history. George Gray, head of the distributing firm, contends.

Three new groups of straight eight cars and a new six-cylinder group—the latter said to be offered at the lowest price ever achieved in a Nash car—make up the 1931 Nash lines.

These are the new Nash Twin-Ignition Eight-90 models, embracing numerous mechanical advancements and increased comfort and performance qualities, and priced below corresponding models of a year ago; the Twin-Ignition Eight-80 series; the Eight-70 series, and the new Six-60 cars.

The next six motor includes many advancements. Features include a finely machined, seven-bearing crankshaft lightened by hollowed crank pins; rifle bored connecting rods for force feed oiling to the piston pins; the latest type aluminum alloy Invar Strut pistons; perfected carburetion with fuel pump feed; newly-refined fan and water pump, equipped with a sealing ring instead of the conventional pump packing; and thermostatic control of water circulation.

He stayed with friends here, while Joseph Crawford, his grandfather and other members of the family went to Bellefonte, Monday afternoon, the grandfather and other relatives returned here by automobile and securing Donnie, went on to Wheeling, West Va., where Donnie now lives with a sister of his mother.

The death of the aged woman occurred after a relapse of pneumonia which resulted in an unexpected adjournment of her son's trial on charges of mishandling funds of the banking institution of which he was once president.

The outstanding automobile achievements of the past five years belong to STUDEBAKER

THESE achievements began with Studebaker's determination to sponsor moderately priced eight-cylinder cars of superior design and durability while other large-scale manufacturers remained committed to sixes.

The Studebaker Eights quickly wrote motor car history. They won, and still hold unchallenged, scores of official records for speed and endurance. They became, and still remain, undisputed World stock-car Champions.

Studebaker's success with Eights became the goal of the entire motor car industry. Numerous manufacturers began featuring Eights.

But Studebaker's greatest achievement was still to come. On July 10, 1930 Studebaker introduced Free Wheeling with positive gear control—and another great epoch in motoring began.

As developed by Studebaker, Free Wheeling is so remarkable in effect, so simple in design, so easy to use, so much safer, that not one driver out of a hundred would do without it after a brief trial. Free Wheeling is not the feature of a season but the future of an industry.

For the first time in the history of the automobile, Free Wheeling with positive gear control releases car momentum from subjection to the power plant that creates it and puts that momentum to work—enabling a car to travel 10,000 miles for every 8,000 miles of engine effort. It saves gasoline and oil. It saves car wear. It simplifies gear shifting. It brings a new thrill to motoring.

Today America's two finest cars—Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln—have adopted Free Wheeling as introduced by Studebaker.

And thus comes to a magnificent climax a program of progress that for the past five years has been the pace-setter for the entire industry—symbolic of the leadership which for seventy-nine years has marked the name of Studebaker.

See the new Free Wheeling Studebakers. They embody the only development of real consequence at the Show.

Studebaker cars are priced f. o. b. factory from $795 to $2600
